Also, students submitting the FAFSA later in the year must meet the US Department of Education's deadline of June 30 to ensure processing for the academic year.
2. The student receives eligibility notices (Student Aid Report or SAR) directly from the United States Department of Education's processor, and the college receives an electronically processed application (ISIR). The student is responsible for reviewing the accuracy of the SAR to determine if any changes or errors have been made during submission.
3. Students selected for verification will be required to submit all necessary verification forms and documentation by the prescribed semester deadlines to ensure processing prior to the payment deadline for the semester. Payment deadlines are posted on www.tcl.edu.

3. Students are responsible to ensure that their class schedules are for courses in their approved academic programs. Students are not eligible for Pell funding for classes outside of their programs, and financial aid will make adjustments as appropriate.
